Music: A Fun Way to Learn and Connect with Others

- Your signing voice is a way to express love.
- Young children feel safe when life is predictable. Songs can be used for waking up, sleeping and other activities.
- Music is a great way to model words, language and communication for your young child.
- Explore different instruments or objects that make sounds.
 - Like reading, singing is an activity that requires listening.
- Signing can be a wonderful bridge for children who are language delayed.

UM Frost School of Music undergraduate student performs the violin for children and families at the UM-Linda Ray Intervention Center.
