

Famous philosopher Napoleon Hill once said,

*“Cherish your visions and your dreams as they are the children of your soul,
the blueprints of your ultimate achievements.”*

Over two decades ago, Keith Scott shared his dream with us, of a program designed to meet the needs of some of our community’s highest risk babies and toddlers, by bringing research and early intervention together in innovative, collaborative ways. His was a call to our better selves, to advocate for and support the neediest children. Dr. Scott inspired in each of us the passion to share his vision and to expand it, always retaining his values of honesty, ethics and a core belief that all children should be able to reach their potential. The numbers of children who have gone on to be their best selves as a result of being in the program he designed for us, are immeasurable. But for each of us, who had the privilege and the honor to work alongside Dr. Scott, we are better people because of him and his caring heart.

In his memory we continue our efforts every day and hope that he is proud of us and his legacy.

Lynne Katz, EDD
Director, Linda Ray Intervention Center
a UM Department of Psychology program

